Ankush R. Israni

Associate

Ankush Israni advises on a broad range of commercial real estate matters, including joint ventures, senior debt and mezzanine financing, purchase and sale, loan sale agreements, fintech issues and leases. He represents institutional and non-institutional investors, including private equity funds, real estate investment companies and real estate investment trusts, in all aspects of transactions and property management.

Most recently, he served as a deputy general counsel for an award-winning investment platform focused on real estate debt.

Ankush was named as a Fellow of the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity for 2020, participating in a landmark program to identify, train and advance the next generation of leaders in the legal profession.

Representative Matters

Ankush's transactions include:

- Represented a pension fund, as mezzanine lender, in connection with the origination of multiple mezzanine loans.
- Represented a subsidiary of JPMorgan Asset Management in a $1.2 billion refinance transaction of Century Plaza Towers, a 2.4 million-square-foot office complex located in Los Angeles, California. The loan was financed by Deutsche Bank, Wells Fargo & Co. and Morgan Stanley Bank.
- Represented a pension fund seller in its sale of two trophy office towers encompassing 724,000 square feet located in San Diego, California to American Assets Trust, Inc. The transaction was one of the largest office transactions in San Diego of 2019.
- Represented a national banking association, as buyer, in connection with the origination of multiple repurchase facilities.
- Represented clients in various apartment acquisitions and related debt financings and joint ventures, from stand-alone projects to several portfolios.
- Represented the senior lender in a debt facility which included borrower mezzanine financing and negotiated the related intercreditor agreement.
- Represented a real estate financial technology startup in its $200 million forward flow loan sale agreement with a large public REIT.

Ankush R. Israni
