Heather Purdy Associate

Heather Purdy is an associate in Stroock's real estate group and a member of the firm's hospitality and leisure practice. Her practice focuses on transaction structuring, financing, acquisition and development activities in the hospitality and lodging industry, with a special focus on the drafting and negotiating of hotel management agreements and related documents.

Heather represents hospitality owners, operators and developers in the selling, buying, developing, financing and managing of hotels and resorts. She also assists clients in matters ranging from the raising of capital to the formation of joint ventures. In addition, Heather is well versed in other areas of real estate, including in the retail, multi-family, industrial and office property categories.

Representative Matters

- Acquisition of a $93 million multi-family student housing project, including the negotiation of a $63 million loan with AIG and affiliates.
- Acquisition and simultaneous conversion of a Mandarin Oriental to a Waldorf Astoria in Atlanta (including legal issues pertaining to the property's branded condominium and F&B operations).
- Negotiated and closed a $63 million loan secured by two commercial properties in Arizona and Texas.
